E. J. McCone Tells Senators Shop Chapels Are Big Dailies
Washington, May 5.—E. J. McCone, of the Buffalo Commercial, testifying yesterday before the Senate newsprint paper investigating committee, declared that the International Typographical Union through its shop chapels exercised a censorship over the news columns of all except four newspapers of the country. The chapel foreman, he testified, is charged with keeping out of print stories unfavorable to organized labor. Asked by Chairman Reed to give specific instances where such a censorship had been exercised, Mr. McCone declared that when Judge Elbert Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation, testified before a Senate committee investigating the steel strike regarding the principal of freedom of contract the Buffalo News received and set in type and cast into plate an Associated Press news dispatch of his testimony but the presses were not permitted to start until changes had been made in the article.

Mr. McCone said the New York Times and the Buffalo Commercial were the only newspapers in the eastern part of the United States that carried the story as sent by the Associated Press. The witness added that his paper, The Commercial was operated on a "decidedly nonunion" basis.

Mr. McCone asserted that all members of the Typographical Union were forced to take an oath, which he said was "decidedly unAmerican." He said the principal paragraph of this oath declared that members of the union should place "fidelity to my union, and its members above any other obligation, social, political, religious, fraternal or otherwise."

"They are forced to place their fidelity to the union above the church, and the nation," the witness said.

NEW FREIGHT TERMINAL
Richmond will have one of the largest freight terminals in the entire South within the next few months, according to plans which have been made by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, to enlarge the Byrd Street freight terminal, at a cost of approximately one million dollars. Erection of a new freight house three blocks in length and the extension of the freight house now in use until it is 1,000 feet in length is part of the program of extension.

Investigate State Institution
Statements that convicts at the State Penitentiary and at the State Farm have not received requisite medical attention, and that, in many instances, no records at all have been kept of examinations that convicts are supposed to have upon admittance and upon release at the respective institutions are made in a resolution adopted Monday afternoon by the board of directors of the penitentiary.
